

License Agreement

This Handbook of California Civil Procedure is copyrighted. If you accept the terms of this offer of a License Agreement, which you may do by downloading, viewing, or printing pages of the Handbook or by copying the file containing the Handbook, Stratton Press grants you a nonexclusive license to download, view, print, and copy the contents of this Handbook upon the terms set forth below. If you do not agree to these terms, do not download, view, print, or copy any portion of the Handbook.

The Handbook is licensed to you as the end user.

You may install the Handbook on a hard disk or other storage device; install and use the Handbook on a file server for use on a network for the purpose of permanent installation onto hard disks or other storage devices or use of the Handbook over such network; and make backup copies of the Handbook. You may

- make unlimited copies of the Handbook
- give copies to other persons or entities
- publish hypertext links to the source file for the Handbook (<http://www.strattonpress.com>)

- make the Handbook available for downloading from your own web site as long as the copies contain this Agreement and the copyright that appears in the Handbook and you receive no consideration for such copies.

The Handbook is owned by Stratton Press and is protected by United States copyright law and international treaty provisions. You agree not to modify, adapt, or translate the Handbook. Except as stated above, this Agreement does not grant you any intellectual property rights in the Handbook.

The Handbook is being delivered to you as is, and Stratton Press makes no warranty as to its correctness. Stratton Press makes no warranties, express or implied, as to noninfringement of third-party rights, merchantability, or fitness for any particular purpose. Stratton Press will not be liable to you for any consequential, incidental or special damages, including any lost profits or lost savings. Some states or jurisdictions do not allow the exclusion or limitation of incidental, consequential or special damages, or the exclusion of implied warranties or limitations on how long an implied warranty may last, so the above limitations may not apply to you.

The license granted to you by this Agreement shall automatically terminate upon your failure to comply with its terms.

Questions and Answers About These Chapters

Question: Are the Judicial Council forms contained in the Handbook official?

Answer: Rule 982(e) of the California Rules of Court provides, “A party may file a duplicate of a Judicial Council legal form produced by a laser printer or similar device. The device may also print, in a contrasting typestyle equivalent to that produced by a typewriter, text that otherwise would have been entered by a typewriter or word processor.” Rule 982(f) provides, “A party or attorney who files a Judicial Council legal form certifies by filing the form that it is a true and correct copy of the adopted or approved form.” The forms in the Handbook were typeset from scratch; they are not images of photocopies. Consequently, they are not mirror images of the Judicial Council forms. For instance, the quotation marks and apostrophes in the sans serif typeface differ slightly. We have gone to great lengths to make true and correct duplicates of the Judicial Council forms, including copying the sloppy typesetting practices employed in those forms and the typographical errors. We believe that an attorney can in good faith certify that these forms are true and correct copies of the Judicial Council forms. The possibility exists, however, that some nit-picking clerk might notice the difference and reject a form printed from the Handbook. (Note that the second pages of Judicial Council forms are printed upside down, to facilitate reading the form without removing it from the court file. Because a Handbook user, to print a Judicial Council form, must print one side of a piece of paper and then print the second side of the form on the back side of the same piece of paper, we have not printed the second pages upside down.) We elected not to use images of photocopies, though scanning the forms would have been much easier than retypesetting them, because retypesetting the forms allows a user of the Handbook to produce a far superior form.

Question: Can I order a copy of the completed chapters rather than incurring the online charges to download the files?

Answer: We do not intend to divert our attention from completing the first volume of the Handbook by trying to market an incomplete version ahead of time. We are willing, however, to distribute completed chapters for the nominal cost of $20. If you would like to purchase a set of diskettes containing the completed chapters (3.5 inch only), please send a check for $20 plus sales tax to:

Question: Can I order a printed copy of the completed chapters?

Answer: Paper and ink is an obsolete method for publishing legal materials. The future of legal publishing is digital. Paper gets more expensive every day. The content of the publication should change constantly, to reflect the constant changes in the law. It is not economical to print a small run of a large law book, and the storage costs are substantial. Accordingly, we are leaning towards publishing the finished Handbook in digital form only, unless demand for a printed version justifies the burden of creating one. We recognize, however, that reading a paper document is easier and sometimes more convenient than reading the document on a computer screen. For this reason, we have decided not to inhibit the reader's ability to print these chapters if he wishes. Be prepared, however, to use a lot of paper. The current chapters already consume 1121 pages.
